

Contribution ID: 134

Type: Talk

Partially conserved axial vector current and applications

Tuesday, July 26, 2016 5:50 PM (20 minutes)

A partially conserved axial vector current that satisfies the chiral Ward identity is defined nonperturbatively for improved Wilson fermions. A first application to the nucleon axial vector coupling is presented.

Primary authors: Dr SCHILLER, Arwed (Institute for Theoretical Physics, University of Leipzig); Prof. SCHIERHOLZ, Gerrit (DESY); Dr PERLT, Holger (Institute for Theoretical Physics, University of Leipzig); Dr ZANOTTI, James (University of Adelaide); Dr RAKOW, Paul E.L. (University of Liverpool); Dr HORSLEY, Roger (University of Edinburgh); Mr KAZMIN, Stanislav (Institute for Theoretical Physics, University of Leipzig); Dr NAKAMURA, Yoshifumi (RIKEN)

Presenter: Dr PERLT, Holger (Institute for Theoretical Physics, University of Leipzig)

Session Classification: Hadron Structure

Track Classification: Hadron Structure